Over the past two years I have had my 2 dogs of 14 years, 2 cats, 21 and 10 years, a foal as well as her mother die. I have had dogs attack my daughter. I have had dogs attack two of my cats. They ran away, but were later found. I just recently had two dogs attack my colt and massacre my son's duck in front of us. (All of these were different sets of dogs) So many people have heard this and told me how sorry they were for me and wished good luck my way.

There was a MASH episode where Honeycut was hustling everyone for money because his wife had to take a job to pay the mortgage. He was pretty much a woe is me, self-pitying guy. Margaret Hoolihan set him straight when he said he had the most to lose by being in Korea...She pointed out that he only had the most to lose, because he had the MOST.

I know that had I not had the 'most', I would not have had so much to lose. If I never owned dogs, cats, horses, ducks... then none of the 'unlucky' things that have happened over the past few years would have ever happened...but then again, none of the good stuff would have happened either. I would have missed out on all the tail wagging, warm muzzles and wet kisses.

I would rather have bad luck with what I have than good luck with nothing. Which would you rather have?

Midnight is truly a black beauty! He is approximately 9 months old, full of fun, and has lots of love to give. He's mild-mannered for such a young dog - very sweet and gentle and walks well on a leash. He's neutered, up-to-date on shots, and ready to go!! Give Midnight the wonderful "forever" home he so deserves.

To see Midnight, call

THE BASIC HANDLE CLINIC

November 9-13, 2005

Learn how to apply "Basic Handle" maneuvers needed to train or improve your horse. This 4 day clinic is for anyone who wants to teach their own horse basic maneuvers that will improve whatever discipline they choose.

Given by Pat Wyse, Master of the "Basic Handle", at Cambridge Star Farm in Anthony, FL

352-425-8554 OR KIWAW71@HOTMAIL.COM

WWW.THEBASICHANDLE.COM

Three race horses stood in their stalls. One said to other others: "I ran 20 races and I won 15 of them!" he bragged. The next said with a snort, "Well, I ran 30 races and won 25 of them!" Then the third horse spoke up proudly, "Yeah, I ran 41 races and won 39 of them!" This seemed to settle the topic when the horses noticed a Greyhound outside their stalls. The Greyhound said, "I ran 100 races and I won 99 of them." The horses looked at each other in amazement and one gasped, "Wow! A talking greyhound!"

A cowboy goes into a saloon, has a beer, walks outside and finds his horse has been stolen. He walks back into the bar, fires his gun through the ceiling. "Which one of you varmints stole my hoss?" he yells. No one answers. "All right, I'm gonna have one more beer and if my hoss ain't outside by the time I finish, I'm gonna do what I done in Texas." He drinks another beer, walks outside, and his horse is back. So he gets on it and gets ready to ride out of town. The bartender walks out of the bar and asks, "Say pardner, what happened in Texas?" The cowboy turns to him, and says, "I had to walk home."

Pokeweed or Nightshade?

By this point it really does not matter, because both of these small round black berry producing plants are poisonous to your horse. Soon after ingestion of anywhere from one to ten pounds of Nightshade, your horse will show signs of diarrhea, colic, and weakness. Pokeweed goes one step further and causes convulsions, but it is unknown how much of the plant the horse must consume to exhibit symptoms. Both plants could prove fatal. All parts of these two plants are poisonous - stems, roots, leaves, berries and flowers. The mature plant is readily identifiable by the black berries, but the leaves of the sprouts are just as toxic as the full grown plant. My children love, and I mean LOVE, to pick grass and hand feed it to their ponies. I have taught them to only pick grass blades and NOTHING else. Hand feeding these leaves could result in a vet bill, or worse.

by Melody Halperin

Nightshade sprout.

These toxic leaves sprouted in my isle way. Note the symetry of the leaf growth. Each set of leaves will add to the symetrical pattern.

Pokeweed sprout.

On a Wednesday evening, this was a healthy Nightshade plant. The next day, armed with my camera, I found it in this condition. Apparently it was something's (not my horses's) dinner. Some of the tell-tale berries, yet to turn black still remain.

This big healthy Pokeweed plant is on my property...or should I say was on my property... Its berries have yet to form. They are still just small buds. See inset.

Black Nightshade berries

Pokeweed berries. As the name suggests, they have an indentation as if they had been poked. Note the magenta stem.

I have a horse named Buddy. He is six years old. I have been taking lessons from Claire at Cloud9 Ranch. I have learned how to give him a bath, clean his feet, brush him, and all the things that a horse needs you to do. I really like to give him a bath, and he likes it too.

We have so much fun playing. When I did my first jump with Buddy, it was scary! But Claire told me how to sit the right way and it worked perfect. I was so happy I told everyone about it! Now we are practicing for the American Youth Horse Council to show everyone what we can do. I am so lucky to have a horse like Buddy and friends who love horses.

Growing Up with Horses

My older sister got a horse. That changed my life! My sister's horse is a walker and she is all black; a little sunfaded with a white diamond on her nose and a little white on all of her legs down by each hoof. Another reason how horses changed my life is using a Natural Horsemanship Program. Last, but not least, playing with a lot of other horses to learn their personalities. My first reason of how horses changed my life is my sister's first horse, her walker, Ten High's Little Darlin'. How? Because she was so gorgeous, and she was super nice. That made me want to get a horse. The person we got Darlin' from all of her horses were nice. I asked my parents if I could get a horse and they said "NO!" really fast because they just don't want me to get hurt with a horse out there. But that didn't stop me of wanting a horse.

My second reason how horses changed my life is a Natural Horsemanship Program. That program makes the horse feel good and when you ride naturally it makes your back feel good! Maybe you would like to try Natural Horsemanship if your back hurts, it makes the horse's back feel good too!

My third reason how Horses changed my life is playing with different horses to learn their personalities. I've played with so many horses it makes me feel good. Personalities are important. It's good to know if you and the horse are going to like each other or not. If you ever want to buy a horse and don't know their personality, the just ask the current owner. Those are all of the reasons how horses changed my life. And you should do what I do, it will make you feel fantastic!

Horses in general have changed my life from the ways I communicate with horses to the way I deal with people and everyday situations. Although one horse in particular has helped me get where I am today, her name is Jubilees Double Dare, or Majestic. Sadly for her she was born about the time that I was just realizing that I didn't have a clue about horses, right before I discovered natural horsemanship.

Before this time, I knew how to brush a horse, how to put a saddle on, how to stay on at a full out gallop (those fabulous times when your horse takes off with you on a pleasant trail ride), and if I pulled hard enough, I knew how to stop. What I didn't know was how a horse thinks, how they are a prey animal and everything around them at any moment could kill them (in their minds), and how sensitive and at the same time loud they can be.

I began my natural horsemanship journey four years ago when Majestic was born. As I was learning, she was incredibly patient, and always tried the best she could for me. Today, I am 17 years old and, as I look back on four years, which I still can't believe have already gone by, and I see how much she helped me through so many things. She was a shoulder to cry on, and a support that no one else could offer. Besides the emotional comfort that I got from her we have been successful in so many other areas. We've done demos together from local things all the way to a big Parelli tour stop in Jacksonville. The best part is; whether were playing at home or in front of a huge crowd, with or without a halter and lead, it's like no one else is there. It's me and her, playing, nothing else in the world matters, and it's the best feeling in the world.
